Canyon's Locations Inspected by Cowboy Group Yesterday

Directors of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society unanimously approved plans made by the executive committee of the Society for the Cowboy Hall of Fame. Canyon was one of ten towns selected for the possible site, and the inspection committee made its visit here Tuesday afternoon.

The directors expressed disapproval of the idea that this would be an exclusive rodeo hall of fame, but would include all branches of the cattle industry.

S. B. Whittenburg of Amarillo moved that Texas would back the proposal of securing the location for Canyon, and that every effort would be made to secure the location at Canyon. He expressed the opinion that Amarillo would back Canyon in the enterprise.

A new requirement was received from the locating committee this week which would prohibit the location in any community which sought to tie this enterprise in with any existing state, county, city or civic project. This would be a National Shrine, according to the terms imposed by the locating committee.

It was proposed Saturday by the directors that due to the long history of the museum in securing and displaying the history of the cattle industry that the north part of the block on which the museum is located be set aside for the shrine. However, if this is rejected, there was space north of Canyon on Highways 87 and 60 on the College Farm; east of Canyon of the Palo Duro Park highway; on Highway 87 south of Canyon; or west of Canyon on Highway 60. The committee the Historical Society offered these to the committee Tuesday afternoon. All of the other nine points as presented by Ray Schnell, chairman of the locating committee of Dickinson, N. D., could be met.

J. Evetts Haley stated that he had been in touch with members of the locating committee, and while the location would be recommended under the 10 points in question, that it would be up to the whole committee, meeting in Denver, to finally determine the location.

According to a dispatch from Kansas City, C. A. Reynolds of Kansas City, favors the plan of building the shrine for rodeo performers as well as cattlemen. He is chairman of the Hall of Fame committee which will supervise the fund raising drive and construction of the Hall.

It has been suggested that $300,000 be raised for the building, and that the operations will cost about $50 000 annually.

A herd of buffalo will be donated by a Fort Worth firm to be placed on the grounds of the proposed Hall of Fame if the Canyon location is selected.

The site committee which visited here Tuesday was traveling in a plane, and planned to inspect three sites during the day.

May 13th will be the date for the annual banquet and meeting of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society stated President L. F. Sheffy at the meeting of the directors Saturday.

A delegation from Canyon and Amarillo met the locating committee in Amarillo Tuesday. This group drove to the College Farm, which was the old T-Anchor headquarters. Dinner was served at the cafeteria. The group inspected the Museum and drove to the Palo Duro State Park before leaving for Oklahoma City.

The locating committee will make a report to the full committee at Denver on March 20 when a final selection will be made.

Texas Brags in Part Played in FEAF R. C. Drive

For the second straight year the sons and daughters of Texas have sworn by the Lone Star to raise more money for the Far East Air Force's American Red Cross campaign than personnel of all other states combined. Last year the Texans had to eat their words but they achieved a measure of distinction. Texans stationed in the FEAF did not contribute more than the other 47 states combined but they did raise well over 50 per cent more money than any other single state.

In a statement issued in connection with the opening of the FEAF Red Cross drive Friday, the men and women of Texas with 1st. Lt. Bill E. Polasek, Lancaster, as their spokesman repeated their aim and added, "This is not an idle boast but is based on our past record which substantiates an old Texas slogan, 'men are measured by the size of their hearts and Texas is noted for big men'."

Many U. S. governors from other states in statements to men and women in Far East Air Forces have indicated that the Texans may have difficulties reaching their goal.

George N. Craig, Governor of Indiana, said: ,'I understand Texas has again issued its challenge of last year to contribute more money in the campaign than any other state. I would like to see Indiana call their bluff. Texas is big but Hoosiers are just as big hearted."

Other comments came from Wisconsin's governor Walter J. Kohler, South Carolina's governor George Bell Timmerman, Jr., and Governor Lane Dwinnell of New Hampshire.

FEAF Red Cross Chairman Col. G. F. Blun said, "The friendly rivalry generated by the 'Texas vs. U. S.' campaign is only part of the FEAF's intensive drive to assist in organization which never hesitates to assist us."

Protection on Polio Plans Are Being Completed

"There will be better protection against polio in Randall County this year than ever before," stated Dr. R. P. Jarrett, county health officer, "if the plans of local agencies and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis are carried out this spring."

The Salk vaccine is expected to be available in April this year and will be administered, without charge, to all children of the first and second grades, PROVIDED the parents of the children ask for it.

Supt. Joe A. Gibson states that within a few days request forms will be furnished the parents of all children of the first and second grades of the Canyon Elementary School, West Texas Elementary School. They will also be sent to parents of small children of the Umbarger Elementary School. Only the children whose parents return the request forms, properly signed, will be vaccinated. This is a completely voluntary program, Dr. Jarrett explained, and only enough vaccine will be sent to Canyon to take care of the number of requests on hand.

Although it is not yet absolutely certain that the Salk vaccine will be licensed in April, it is necessary to plan as if it were a certainty, so that supplies will be on hand, and the vaccinations which are three for each child, can be completed, if possible, before the close of school.

Last year 440,000 children were given this vaccine. This year every child in the first two grades, in the entire United States will be vaccinated, if the parents request it. This great program, made possible by the National Foundation, is financed by the March of Dimes. The program is NOT another test, but the first use of newly established preventive measure.

February Rural Accidents Kill Six, Hurt 46

Six deaths, 43 injuries and $58,605 property damage was the February results of automobile accidents in rural areas according to Capt. J. W. Blackwell of the Texas Highway Patrol. The accidents are only those that occurred in the Amarillo District, in towns of populations below 2,500. The figures do not include accidents investigated by any police agency other than the Highway Patrol.

Sixty-three of the accidents happened on state and federal highways. Eight of them took place on farm-to-market roads; ten on county roads; and 14 in small towns below 2 500 population.

Once more principal violations causative factor was listed as speeding. Other causative factors in the order listed were driving while drinking, driving on wrong side of the road when not passing, failure to grant right-of-way, and careless or reckless driving.

January's causative factors were listed as speeding, driving while drinking, careless or reckless driving, following too closely and improper turning.

The first month of 1955 the Highway Patrol listed five deaths, 58 injuries and property damage amounting to $67,922. The figures show that during the first two months of 1955 there have been 11 persons killed, 101 injured and property damage amounting to $126 527 as a result of rural accidents investigated by state highway patrolmen.

Captain Blackwell reports that in carrying out their basic duties the 29 patrolmen of the Amarillo district no. 5, investigated 95 accidents, made a total of 546 arrests and worked 4,187 daytime hours plus 2,446 night-time hours. Out of the 546 arrests, 248 of them were for speeding and 25 were for driving while intoxicated.

Look Over the Huge Amount of Work Connected with Underpass

The other day we wandered down to the new underpass which is being built on Highway 87, just north of Canyon.

Readers of this column will recall that we have been somewhat critical of the slow progress which was made in starting this project. From both directions the highway suddenly came to a two lane underpass from a four lane structure.

Those who saw the huge pile of dirt which is piled almost mountain high to the west of this construction, wondered at the amount of excavation.

Well we went down to see what was going on. We tramped around this construction for an hour or more.

We came to the conclusion that the Highway and Railroad engineers knew more about their business than we, and that building such a huge enterprise is no play.

Why in the world is all that expense? Progress we say! That same word has been used with each and every project which is undertaken. Sometimes we wonder that more people do not become peeved when they see that word being used. "Progress" is spelled "expense" in most tongues and languages.

No wonder John Santa Fe took so much time in figuring out what he wanted to do about this little job of just one little old underpass.

Homer P. Rainey Returns to Look Over Politics in State

Dr. Homer P. Rainey of Missouri returned to Texas last week to look over the political field. He said that he came with a view of getting material for three books which he is preparing for publication.

As readers will recall, Dr. Rainey was president of the University of Texas until he was fired. He ran for governor on a program of vindication. He came to Canyon, and less than a dozen persons greeted him.

After his defeat he was elected president of a girls school in Missouri but was forced out when he could not see eye to eye with the Board of Regents.

Dr. Rainey is a problem child. He refuses to accept conditions as they are, but wishes to stir up trouble. He has many followers in every county in Texas who would welcome his return and is hopeful that he will return some day to run for governor.

It would be a sad day for Texas if this should come about. The state is now struggling with the veterans land mess in which Bascom Giles is in the big middle. Add to this the spirit of vindication and the political mess in Texas would become a real mess indeed.

Cut in Income Taxes; Or a Balanced Budget; Your Choice

As we view the situation, the cut of $20 in income taxes would be of material assistance to the people of America, but would throw the entire tax structure into a mess. That is just the reason that the Democrats in Congress are so strong for the measure. They would like to further embarrass the President by making it impossible for the budget to be balanced.

Naturally we are interested in seeing each and every person in Texas save $20 on his income taxes, but this is little more than this pittance of a saving. We just cannot forget about the huge national debt and are aware of the fact that each person must put in two hours and 35 minutes per day working for Uncle Sam before he starts to get any pay for himself.

We are for the opinion today, as we have always been, that the budget must be balanced before we can hope for any real reductions in taxes.

We hope that Washington will begin to balance the budget, rather than continue piling up more debts for future generations to pay off.

Have Car Inspected Before April 15th, and Avoid Rush

One of these days State Highway Patrolmen will descend upon car owners in Randall county and those who have not had their cars equipped with new stickers will be forced to pay off.

We heard the other day that in an adjoining county, the owner of an old car was fined $100 because he did not go to the trouble to have the 1954 inspection made.

After all the stories which have been put out regarding this very essential and necessary service to the car owners of Texas, this owner had simply not paid the least attention. No one was to blame, but himself.

Car owners have until April 15th to have their cars inspected and necessary repairs made. Those who fail to do so are running a tremendous risk of having a fine imposed.

Don't cuss the law! Those who wrote the law were of the opinion that it was the only way to make cars safe for the highways.

Paper Work Continues in Spite of the Huge Government Cost

The Hoover commission is still studying this government of ours and is revealing vast wastes, which could be stopped if each and every person should take a little time, and raise his voice against this waste.

The waste of paper is terrible. Seven copies of each order is written—at your expense—you, the taxpayer.

This costs money—waste of paper, waste of time to write, waste of time to file, waste of time to process, waste of time of higher ups to look over the waste. All in all this government is wasting about four billion dollars annually in this process of useless paper work.

Naturally, no one is interested in the saving of this small amount, considering the vast amount of money which the government spends. But let it be remembered that when all amounts are added, we have a huge total.

It is amazing what tunes and lyrics sell on the U. S. market in the popular song category, and sometimes disillusioning, but it proves the animal theory.

Wise advertising will bring profits; that's why the biggest companies in the world spend millions of dollars on advertising. There is no other reason for it.

Careful Drivers Are Warned and Warned and Warned by News

The Canyon News has published a lot of warning to drivers of cars to be careful. We wonder if the warnings have done any good. We wonder if drivers are not just about as careless as they ever were.

At least we are going to continue these warnings and publish the following as a warning to be careful: "What can I do about traffic accidents?"

A lot of people — concerned about a traffic situation that resulted in 38,300 deaths in 1953 — are asking that question.

But many ask as if they expected the answer to be, "Nothing!"

They're dead wrong. The answer is, "Plenty!" And the current program which the Texas Safety Association, the Texas Department of Public Safety and the National Safety Council are conducting spells it out: "Know and Obey Traffic Laws!"

Maybe you think that's a little far fetched — that knowing and obeying traffic laws won't make much of a dent in the annual traffic toll.

If that's what you think read the following sentence carefully. In 1953, 62 per cent of the drivers involved in fatal traffic accidents were violating a traffic law at the time of the accident! Doesn't this fact definitely establish the relationship between traffic accidents and law breaking?

We don't say that none of these drivers would have had accidents if they had not violated the law. But it's safe to assume that a substantial number of accidents in which they were involved would never have occurred if the drivers had been observing the law.

This is the basis for our suggestion that a knowledge of and respect for traffic laws will bring about a partial solution of our traffic accident problem.

It's a simple solution.

All it calls for is a willingness on the part of every driver to accept his responsibility to protect himself and everyone he meets in traffic. If each driver familiarizes himself with local traffic laws and obeys them at all times, we'll be well on the way to licking our traffic accident problem.

Meat For All Persons; Will Be Raised by the Cattlemen

"Meat marketing will soon show its biggest 1955 bulge over a year ago" said an authority on the marketing situation the other day. As a matter of fact, this is the age of statistics. Surveys are being taken on this, that and the other kind of living.

According to statistics, the people of America will consume, or have available for consumption, 26,000,000,000 pounds of meat during 1955. This is an increase of 400,000,000 pounds over 1954, and marks a whooping 20 percent over 1951. This figures out 154 pounds of meat for each and every man, woman and child in America.

As population increases, the demands will increase for more meat. That puts the problem up to the cattle producers of America. They have always produced more than the nation needed. The excess will go to the starving countries of the world, where production is not so great.

Guaranteed Wage Could Wreck the Economy of the Nation

Automobile workers are demanding a guaranteed wage from the various manufacturing plants.

That would be a fine thing—to the workers—but what about the balance of the people of America?

To draw down a good fat wage week after week; year after year; in good times or bad times; is the plan of CIO.

Supposing a depression hits. No one expects this, but this is just the time that depressions do hit.

Who is going to guarantee the wages of printers; or newspaper men; or clerks; or farmers; or teachers; or any other class, who are not automobile workers?

What about the producers—General Motors, Ford, and other big plants? Who is going to buy their goods in depression times? Should one of these big plants be forced into bankruptcy by such a depression, each and every person in America would feel the effects.

Beware of False Doctrines of British Economy on Recovery

The London Economist is England's foremost publication in its field. It recently blasted the idea that enterprise can be made efficient by government planning. Nothing that governmental action can do, it observed, "will be a quarter as effective in promoting efficiency (which means in promoting a rising standard of living) as the compulsion that competition provides."

The Economist knows whereof it speaks—Britain has had a full measure of socialization and government domination of enterprise. The result was depressed living standards and the imminence of national bankruptcy. Not until a new government moved to stop the socialistic trend and lift some of the restrictions did Britain begin to recover. Let us profit from her costly example.

Headache May Be Best Friend

AUSTIN: A man's friend can often be his headache, according to Dr. Henry A. Holle, State Health Officer. This is hard to believe when your head is throbbing with pain, but the truth is that a headache is most often Nature's signal that all is not right in your little world.

That's because a headache is not an ailment itself, but a symptom of something else. That "something else" may be as simple a problem as too much food and excitement the night before; it may, on the other hand, be a serious threat to bodily health. In either case, it is a warning that you should act immediately, in the one case by slowing down the tempo of your social life, in the other by seeking the advice of your physician.

Headaches can be caused by fatigue, by allergy, by an injury or by an emotional disturbance. But all of them fall into three categories: mechanical, toxic and functional.

A headache from eyestrain, overwork or inflammation of the sinuses is a mechanical one; headache caused by too much acid in the body, by constipation, by overindulgence in alcohol, by inhaling certain gas fumes, all of which slow up the blood circulation, are toxic headaches. Functional headaches include the oft-mentioned migrane and those caused by high blood pressure.

Most headaches need not cause over-alarm. If they occur frequently, the trouble is often the "morning after" type which should, of course, call for the obvious remedy—eliminate the night before." Or is your office or bedroom improperly ventilated? That could be the cause of the trouble.

If headaches recur frequently and under the same conditions and in the same areas of the head, heed the danger signal your own body is giving you. Consult your physician. And don't lean too heavily on the support of aspirin and similar patent remedies. Their aid is only temporary at best and does nothing to affect the real seat of your trouble.

Law Does Not Give Person "Right" to Drive an Automobile

Did you ever stop to think that you haven't any "right" to drive an automobile — that driving is a privilege, and like all privileges it carries with it definite responsibilities?

This point was brought out by R. B. Roaper, president, Texas Safety Association, who is vitally interested in the know and obey traffic laws program now being conducted by the Texas Safety Association, the Texas Department of Public Safety, and the National Safety Council.

"There's nothing on the statute books or on a driver's license that refers to the right to drive," Roaper said. "The privilege of driving a car is given to the citizen and he is expected to accept the responsibility it entails."

Roaper said that in its broadest sense such responsibility means the driver's responsibility for his own safety and the safety of everyone else who uses the public thoroughfares.

"This, of course, includes obeying all traffic laws and ordinances," he said, "because traffic laws, which are based on a combination of experience and common sense, are made for the protection of the public."

Mr. Roaper reminded persons who are in the habit of taking traffic laws lightly that such an attitude is bound to get them in trouble. He said that traffic law violators constantly expose themselves to the possibility of losing their licenses, being fined or jailed, or becoming involved in fatal accidents.

"Even without the threat of these serious consequences," Roaper said, "the trustworthy citizen should be willing to accept his responsibility to drive safely at all times."

Roaper reminded every driver to do his share to make the know and obey traffic laws program a success. He believes that if each individual accepts his responsibility for his own safety and for the safety of all he meets in traffic, the Texas traffic accident toll can be cut substantially.

TOO MANY PENGUINS

Hobart, Tasmania. — There are so many penguins in the little Tasmanian community of Bruny Island that residents are debating how it can solve its unique traffic problem — too many penguins on the roads. While some suggest laying pipes under the roads as "subterranean penguin crossings," others, who doubt that penguins would take easily to subways, think low fences would keep the roads clear.

NEWS LETTER

FROM CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS OF THE 18TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Veterans Hospital

The Hoover Commission Task Force recommendations that the Amarillo Veterans Hospital be closed is understandably causing quite a furor. My immediate reaction to the report was carried in the Amarillo paper. I want to here and now state that the newspaper report was an exact reflection of my feeling on the matter at the time the report came to my notice, and my reaction has been confirmed and fully supported after reading the report.

It is a very simple thing for a few individuals to take a group of facts and figures and add, subtract and multiply them. Such practice will, no doubt, produce a mathematical answer that might be difficult to challenge. However, the thing that seems to be forgotten is the fact that we are dealing with human problems, and in so doing, the human equation must be applied before the end result will be correct.

Frankly, I am completely astounded at the recommendations of this task force. To me, it represents how quickly the debts that we owe the veterans of this nation can be forgotten. This report reflects a cold-blooded attempt to justify the closing of some veterans hospitals on a strictly facts-and-figures basis without regard to the human beings involved. It no doubt represents a coldly efficient approach.

The thing that occurs to me is that the men who caused the need for hospitals in this country were the dictators who could be rightfully called the most coldly efficient men in our time. In other words, these dictators placed efficiency first and last. The human beings to them were merely cogs in the wheels to create their efficient machine that they hoped would rule the world.

When these human beings reached the point or the condition that they could not produce, they became expendable and were disposed of. It must be remembered that it was the veterans of this country, many of whom are patients in these veterans hospitals, who destroyed these dictators and protected and preserved the freedoms and the human dignities that we in America so dearly love.

If the recommendations of the Hoover Commission Task Force concerning the closing of the Amarillo Hospital is any indication of the type of recommendations that we can expect from the Hoover Commission from now on, it is my recommendation that the Hoover Commission be closed, rather than the veterans hospitals.

Health, Education and Welfare

Secretary Oveta Culp Hobby testified before the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce on March 2nd concerning the omnibus health proposal of this administration, to-wit, H.R. 3458 and H.R. 3720. This was the beginning of the hearings on this controversial legislation.

The reason it is controversial is because many feel that it is the opening of the door for socialized medicine. I pointed this out to Mrs. Hobby during the hearings and she seemed to be very much surprised that the Members had received any communications indicating that this health legislation was even closely akin to socialized medicine.

Her surprise to the contrary notwithstanding, I have received quite a number of communications referring to these administration health proposals as the opening wedge for the final socialization of medicine. Whether or not these accusations are true will, of course, depend upon what develops in the hearings.

Mrs. Hobby takes the position that this is the voluntary approach. In answer to a direct question of mine, she advised the committee that neither she nor the administration has had any plans or discussion to move into the field of compulsory health insurance should the proposed voluntary plan be successful. Her statement concerning this feature was "The objective of this proposal is to accelerate the extension of voluntary health insurance."

In other words, this bill would create a situation where the federal government would give certain guarantees to health insurance companies so that these companies would write health insurance that they now refuse to write. That is, the federal government would protect them to a certain degree against any loss they might suffer because of the policies they had written. It is a very complex situation and involves several other features besides the re-insurance feature.

One of the alarming things that was pointed out in Secretary Hobby's testimony was her statement that "There are an estimated 9 million persons in the United States with serious mental disorders, most of them untreated, and those who are receiving institutional care or treatment occupy nearly half of the nation's hospital beds."

I say "alarming," because this figure constitutes approximately six percent of the population of this country. Many of these mental disorders are the direct result of nervous disorders traceable to war service. It occurs to me that the Task Force of the Hoover Commission might do well to discuss some of these matters with the Secretary of Health.

Senator Morse Sees Opportunity Service

By STANLEY JAMES
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON: Senator Wayne Morse, Oregon Democrat, is one of a few men ever to change party allegiance after serving about two complete six-year terms in the upper legislative body.

When Morse changed his party registration from Republican to Democrat a few days ago, he announced he would run for re-election next year — as a Democrat. His change gives Oregon two Democratic Senators, the freshman Senator just elected last year, Richard Neuberger, and himself. That is a complete reversal of the Oregon Senate representation of a few years ago.

Morse's switch puts him in the limelight for the 1956 race, when he will offer as a Democratic candidate for the Senate. Opposition is being groomed for him of a formidable character by his old party and that race will be of national interest.

The final clincher in Morse's party switch probably came when the Republicans in the Senate refused to vote him first-class committee assignments after Eisenhower's 1952 victory. Morse was then an Independent, but he had seniority on several committees. This was disregarded by the Republican leadership, even though Morse was voting with the Republicans to organize the Senate.

Shortly after this, he announced he would vote with the Democrats in 1955, to organize the Senate, but he did not say he would become a Democrat. However, the Democrats wooed him consistently and just recently he decided to make the basic change from Independent to Democrat.

In making that change, though, he told reporters he would be an Independent Democrat, with the emphasis on the word "independent."

DRIVE SUCCESS

Monroe, La. — A television station's drive for "pennies for polio" was so successful here recently that the banks' supplies of pennies ran out. More than 104,706 pennies poured into the station. These were taken to the bank and a certified check for $1,047.06 was turned over to the polio drive headquarters.

Hereford Choir Entertains Lions

The Canyon Lions Club was host Wednesday at its regular luncheon to the Hereford Lions Club. The program was provided by the Hereford club.

President of the Hereford club, Cecil Massey, formerly of this city, introduced Don Moore, director of the Hereford High School Choir, who directed the choir in their version of "Praise the Lord," "Once to Every Man and Nation."

A boys quartet, the "Hereford Bums," sang "Summer Time," "Carolina in the Morning," and "Stormy Weather."

The girls sextet then sang "Goodnight Sweetheart," "Sh-boom," and "This Old House."

The program ended with the choir singing "Climbing Up the Mountain."

Accompanist for the group was Miss Dixie Young, who is also the Hereford Lions Club Sweetheart."

Other guests at the meeting were David Horn of Canyon, guest of L. L. Byars, and Bill Decker, guest of Buren Scott of Hereford.

A USED PIG

When Mr. Nichols moved into his Vermont retreat one day in June, the problem presented itself of how to get rid of his garbage.

"Get yourself a pig," suggested a knowing native and that's just what Mr. Nichols did. He bought a skinny little one from Farmer Sheean for $10.

Came September and the New York-bound Mr. Nichols proposed to sell the pig, now grown fat and sleek, back to Farmer Sheean. The latter would offer only $5 for it.

"How come?" demanded Nichols. "When it was a lot smaller, you made me pay you double that sum."

"True," agreed Farmer Sheean, "But you've got to remember you had the use of it all summer."

LIVING UP TO THE AUDIENCE

Jimmy Dunn writes to tell me about the English actor who received a rebuke from a director.

"Go on," he said, "drop your ajtches, can't you?"

"I'm supposed to be acting the part of a British peer," argued the Englishman.

"I know that," said the director, "but all you English drop your ajtches, don't you?"

"Good gracious, no," the Englishman responded.

The director pondered a moment and then said, "Well, drop 'em anyhow. The guys on this side expect it!"

RAILS CUT

The Interstate Commerce Commission has reported a further shrinkage of the nation's railroad system during 1954, with authorized track abandonments running to 1,000 miles. During the latest reporting year, the commission authorized new railroad construction of only 87 miles. The total trackage currently operated approximate 372,000 miles, against about 377,000 miles ten years ago.

Texas Viewpoint In Washington

By PRICE DANIEL
U. S. Senator

Federal court officials and grand juries in Texas may be responsible for a nationwide investigation of the narcotics traffic and related law violations.

Through Federal Judge Joe Ingraham the grand jury at Galveston reported to your senators that narcotics law violations constituted the main portion of its business, except for immigration cases. The jurors urged more attention to the subject and better enforcement.

Narcotics Crime Ring

Former United States District Attorney Charles F. Herring of Austin sent a report which was even stronger. He said that "a deadly, multi-million dollar narcotic business flourishes in the United States as the largest criminal operation in the world." Congressman Homer Thornberry of Austin introduced a resolution in the House calling for a special investigation, and I have offered a similar resolution in the Senate. It appears now that either a House or Senate committee will be authorized to study the problem so as to devise means for better enforcement of present narcotics laws and to recommend improvements and changes in existing laws and procedures.

Texas Women Are Leaders Too

This column has previously reported on the places of leadership that two sons of Texas hold in both houses of Congress. This week we hasten to add that a Texas woman has been chosen to preside over the organization composed of the wives of members and former members of Congress.

Mrs. Omar Burleson, wife of the Congressman from Anson, is this year's president of the Congressional Club. It sponsors some of the outstanding events in Washington each year, including the annual reception for the President and First Lady.

Newspaper Women

Liz Carpenter of Austin, who with her husband, Les, corresponds for various Texas and Arkansas newspapers, is president of the Women's National Press Club. This husband and wife team is very popular in Washington, but the wife took the honors this year with her leadership of the 365 newspaper women who report the news from Washington.

Other Texas newspaper women who cover the Capital scene are Sarah McClendon of Tyler, correspondent for eight Texas newspapers; Ruth Schumm of Dallas, on the staff of the Dallas News; and Martha Cole of Temple, who is with the Associated Press.

Texas Independence Day

Texans in Washington celebrated Texas Independence Day by meeting for dinner at the National Press Club. The event was sponsored by the University of Texas Ex - Students Association. Congressman Homer Thornberry is president of the organization. The entertainment was supplied by students at the University who came especially for the occasion. Miss Barbara Booz of Port Arthur, Sweetheart of the University, was here, and there was folk singing by Miss Marilyn Bronson of Austin, piano numbers by Ben Richard Di Tosti of San Marcos, and juggling by Fred Whitaker of Carthage.

University of Texas Ex-Students Association

As in many other cities in the United States and throughout the world, the University of Texas has a strong ex-students group in Washington. There are about 500 members here. Thus the Texas traditions are preserved by the folks who have to be away from home on our holidays. Your senator is a Baylor graduate, but Mrs. Daniel is a University of Texas "ex." That is how the writer gets in on these meetings.

Cotton Allotments

The bill to provide extra cotton acreage for hardship cases, which we mentioned last week, has passed the House of Representatives. This gives hope that action may be had in time to help during the present planting season. Senator Johnson and I are continuing to press for prompt action by the Senate Committee and it is working on the subject now. It is believed that some type of relief will be enacted to help those whose cuts have been so drastic. In the meantime, every farmer who will not use his allotment should turn it in to the county committee both to protect himself for future years and to help someone who needs it this year.

"MATO"

Westover Air Force Base, Mass. — Tired of having a cold engine to start every morning, Air Force Capt. Kenneth R. Kurtzman came up with a push-button device which he calls "MATO." He rigged 40 feet of TV antenna wire from the kitchen of his home to the garage. The wire carries current which trips the ignition and starts the car motor, while the captain eats his breakfast. The "MATO" designation came from — morning-assisted-take-off. It cost him about $3 plus his own ingenuity.

WRONG CALL

The doctor rushed out of his study. "Get my bag at once!" he shouted.

"Why, dad," asked his daughter, "what's the matter?"

"Some fellow just phoned he can't live without me," gasped the doctor, reaching for his hat.

His daughter breathed a sigh of relief. "Just a moment," she said quietly, "I think that call was for me."

WRONG DECISION

"She got an idea no man's good enough for her."

"She may be right."

"She may be left."

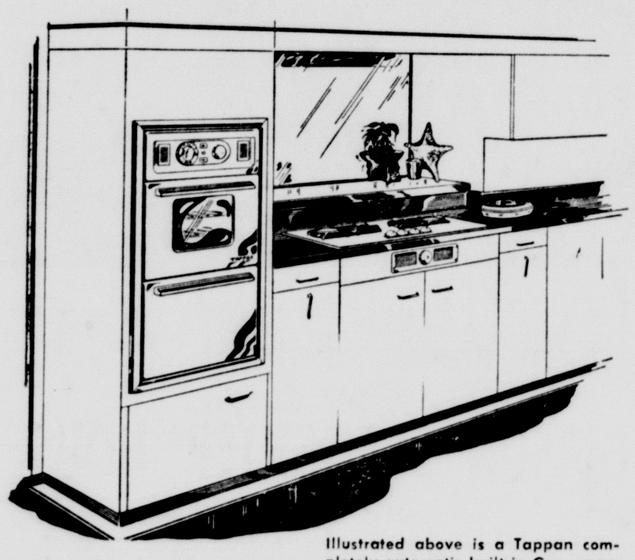

A 1954 Bonn trade review showed that West Germany is now third among the world's major commercial powers being outranked by this nation and Britain.

The Republican National Committee approved San Francisco as the site for the 1956 national convention and Aug. 20 as the starting date.

Visiting Pastor Spoke Tuesday at Rotary Luncheon

Dr. Kenneth W. Copeland, pastor of the Travis Park Methodist Church, San Antonio, who is conducting Religious Emphasis Week at the college, spoke Tuesday at the Rotary luncheon. He comes under the sponsorship of the Willson lectures.

Mr. Copeland introduced his subject by a series of humorous stories about the Rotary Club and Lions Club of which he served as president in San Antonio.

His subject was impression formed of South America. Regardless of what we may think of UN, we must learn that we cannot get along by ourselves. There are 800 million persons behind the Iron Curtain and only 160 million in this country. We cannot build a fence around America.

The late George Truitt was given as an example of complete cooperation with his own denomination, and loyalty toward all religious denominations. The two go hand in hand.

Churchill is a loyal Englishman but has the love of all nations at heart.

Being a good American makes all of us better citizens of all the world.

When one travels, he must remember that the poorest person in this nation is wealthy in comparison to natives of the land in which he travels.

We must understand people in every nation. We cannot sell them something when we are superior to the people.

Dr. Copeland closed his talk by urging that we send more missionaries to foreign fields. They are cementing the good will of this nation to other peoples.

Raymond Raillard distributed basketball tickets and urged that all members get out and sell them.

Visitors were Barry Clark and James Pool of Canyon, Junior Rotarians; Bill Hunter of Dimmitt; Rev. Jim Pickens of Vega; Rev. Curtis Strader of Canyon; E. Wilson Cole of Childress; Bob Lindsey of Borger; Forrest Barnes, E. Kancher, Bill Dell, Roy Pool, Guy Carlander, all of Amarillo.

McGlasson Opens Private Office

D. E. (Gene) McGlasson who resigned from his position as County Attorney March 1 of this year had held that office nearly five years. Gene lived in the Randall County portion of Amarillo prior to moving to Canyon as County Attorney. Now that he is out of public office and has his own office in law practice he plans to continue living here in Canyon.

"I enjoyed serving the people and made many friends while in office," McGlasson said when interviewed. He said that his interest in connection with public office today was the same as any other citizen would take in preserving the welfare of our community and country.

McGlasson attended Baylor Law School and was graduated from that school in the spring of 1949. He began his law practice immediately thereafter. In 1950 he entered politics and won the office of Randall County Attorney. He held that position from August, 1950, until March 1, of this year when he resigned for private practice.

Early last week Gene completed the move of his personal belongings from the courthouse to his new office. The new office is located next door to the Randall County Abstract office at 1414 Fourth Avenue.

Tulia Business Men Stung by Many Solicitors

The Tulia Herald published a front page editorial the past week, headed "Gullible Tulians Pay Thousands to Questionable, Fake Charities."

The editorial goes on to recite the supposedly charity rackets which have been pulled on Tulia citizens, to which Tulia business men have fallen.

Thousands of dollars are taken out of Tulia annually and the same is true of Canyon and each and every town on the Plains.

The Canyon News pointed out a racket which was recently pulled on Canyon business firms. The same bunch worked Tulia.

Negro solicitors, who are supposed to represent children's homes in Amarillo have plead guilty to being frauds.

The school curtain racket was the favorite stunt pulled until rural schools were discontinued. Now it is library books, when local merchants are soaked $50 per page for ads to be published and inserted in an unknown number of books.

The solicitors call upon merchants who refuse to buy an ad in the local newspaper, which has a guaranteed circulation, and seem to enjoy being gypped by these so-called peddlers.

Don't buy from these peddlers. This warning is issued with the full knowledge that Canyon business men never call for identification of these swindlers, and seem to like being the brunt of frauds of all kinds.

Mr. and Mrs. Donal Iverson, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Rigsby and son, Leo, spent the week-end in Greeley, Colo., with Mr. and Mrs. Dean Hines and family. Mrs. Hines is a daughter of the Rigsbys.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lehnick of Friona attended the teachers meeting in Amarillo last Friday then spent the week-end in Canyon with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fullerton.

Stevens endorses reserve service for all youths.

MAGGIE McKENZIE, popular radio star of KGNC says, "Every woman knows light Karo is best for cooking ... and on the table ...

it's Karo for me, the best-tasting waffle syrup of 'em all"

Yes, indeed ... biscuits go like hot cakes when you pour on plenty of delicious Karo waffle syrup. There's nothing like it for good eating. Satisfyin' flavor. So rich it stands right up on top of biscuits (keeps 'em light and fluffy). Keep Karo on your table morning, noon and night ... it tops anything!

Ask your grocer for Karo waffle syrup, in pints and quarts

Congress Is Doubtful of CIA's Operation - - - Reds On Formosa

WASHINGTON: One of the hottest questions in Washington these days is whether the United States secret service organization — the Central Intelligence Agency — is one of the world's great intelligence systems. People at the CIA say it is, of course, but there are those who wonder.

Some of the wondering is being done by members of Congress and, to help find an answer to this question, Congress ordered an investigation of CIA a few months back. To head that investigation, Congress picked a distinguished military figure, General Mark Clark.

There was some stickiness to this question, however, for President Eisenhower also picked a man to head an investigation of the CIA. General James Doolittle was the President's choice. The two investigations were conducted separately and not coordinated.

Moreover, they were conducted (General Clark's is still going on) amid strange circumstances and in an atmosphere that sometimes bordered on suspicion. General Clark, at times, wondered whether he would get the cooperation of departments and officials in the Executive Branch, since the President had his own study going on.

He even told friends he could not carry on if he was refused this cooperation. But he has stayed at the job and his probe, requested by Congress, should be completed soon. Whether this report and one submitted by the Doolittle group, will answer the question whether the CIA is really a top efficiency organization or not is still to be seen.

The disturbing thing about CIA's operation, to many Senators and Congressmen, is that nobody checks on what it does. Senior members of two committees on each side of Capitol Hill. Appropriations and Armed Services check into this great organization and its functioning, but this must by necessity, be only a limited check.

Many members of Congress feel that a joint committee is needed, a committee which does nothing but check on CIA. That would mean a committee on the order of the Joint Committee On Atomic Energy. That group constantly studies the AEC and its operations and that is its main purpose.

Senator Mike Mansfield, Montana Democrat, said recently he had over 30 fellow Senators ready to support the joint committee proposal. But he said he wouldn't introduce a bill to establish one until the Clark group makes a report.

Many observers think the Clark study group will recommend some such investigative group, to keep a constant watch on CIA's expenditures, the number of employes, and related questions of efficiency in that organization. But whether the U.S.A. secret service arm is as good or better than its Russian or British counterpart, for instance remains obscured to members of Congress. There are reports that it isn't.

Until there is a watching group, keeping an eye on operations all the time, members of Congress might never really know how effective the U.S. intelligence organization is. Even with the watchdog group looking in, that question might still be a hard one to answer for some time.

In the foreign affairs field, the United States has had two headaches of late — in addition to the usual Communist problems. First, in the Tachens Islands crisis and the Formosa defense question, the U.S. experienced difficulties with Chiang Kai-shek similar to those encountered when it attempted to set policy for both the U.S. and South Korea during the armistice negotiations there.

Kai-shek was reluctant to give up any territory to the Reds, preferring to fight. To Kai-shek the question was simple. As matters now stand, with the U. S. for fighting the Chinese Communists, he has little hope of winning back lost territory. But if we become involved in an all-out war, then we would win back not only islands, but possibly even continental territory, for Chiang.

Like Syngman Rhee, Kai-shek feels that we must eventually fight the Reds so he sees a war now as preferable to waiting. But the official U.S. view is that war is not certain. If there is a chance to avoid it, and the slaughter it will bring to American youth, we are going to avoid it.

Thus, when Kai-shek and Rhee try to tempt us into fighting, they are motivated not only by the desire to get into war, to win Asian territory for them but they sincerely believe we must fight anyhow, now or later, and they are ready to fight now. Thus Kai-shek's reluctance to withdraw from the Tachens is explained.

In the end, like Rhee, he saw that he could not change Washington's viewpoint, and that he had nothing to gain and something to lose by alienating his strongest ally by refusing to cooperate. But in dealing with both Rhee and Kai-shek, U. S. diplomats have to constantly keep in mind that there is a difference in the foreign policies of the two Asian countries on the one hand, and of us, on the other.

In Kai-shek's case, he is already fighting the Reds. If we come in, he feels he might win. We are hoping to avoid World War III. We are not yet convinced it is inevitable. We do not want to appease the Reds but we are not yet ready to undertake a major war, possibly an atomic war, on the theory that we might as well fight now — since war is certain.

Exhausted from moving furniture around all morning the man sat heavily in a chair to take a rest while his wife's gaze swung critically around the room.

"I still don't like it, Henry," the wife said frowning. "Can't you suggest a way in which we can get some warmth in the arrangement?"

Henry stared pensively at his wife a moment then said tiredly, "Well, dear, we could set it afire."

"As of June 30, 1939, about 4,849,000 persons were receiving a federal check every month. In 1953, 14 years later, 20,120,000 people were receiving a regular monthly check from the government. In short, the political potency of this factor has increased 400 per cent since 1939." —Howard Buffett, former U. S. Representative from Nebraska.

Gov. Shivers Proclaims Easter Seal Month

Governor Allan Shivers named March 10 to April 10 the "Month for Crippled Children" in a proclamation issued from the State executive office, March 7, in Austin.

The Proclamation was issued in support of the 1955 Easter Seal campaign, scheduled to open in Texas on March 10, and continue through Easter Sunday.

"It is a privilege for me to proclaim this month for Crippled Children," Governor Shivers said in a statement accompanying the proclamation. "No greater work can we engage in than giving aid to crippled and handicapped children."

"I urge every citizen of the State to have a part in the worthy humanitarian program. Let each of us individually do what we can to help a crippled child attain his rightful place in society."

"Also, let us all contribute liberally to the Easter Seal campaign, so that the services of the Texas Society for Crippled Children can be extended to reach every handicapped individual who needs care and treatment."

"May we not slacken our efforts until our goal is reached."

History of Cowmen Has Been Written, Published by Lewis Nordyke Amarillo

In February, 1877, 40-odd men with a single purpose met in Graham, Texas. That historic meeting marked the inception of an organization that is today one of the most powerful and progressive in the entire country—the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association. Lewis Nordyke's magnificent new book, Great Roundup, which William Morrow & Co. will publish on March 21, tells the story of that meeting—and the story of the men who controlled and shaped one of the main currents of American industry, that tough, independent breed of men who battled year after year to make the cattle business what it is today.

On that auspicious morning in 1877 when America's first cattlemen gathered, the spirited enterprise that was to become one of the most vital industries in the great Southwest was still in its infancy. But already there were problems—one problem in particular had united these men, a problem that could not be solved by individual action alone. That was cattle rustling. Because there was then no universal system of brand registry, rustling was wide-spread and virtually incapable of detection. The ranchers' herds were in constant danger of outlaw depredations, but there was little they could do about it unless they caught the rustler red-handed.

There were other challenges that confronted these hardy and intrepid men—the Indian menace was ever present during the early years—and there was drouth, prairie fire, blizzards and disease to contend with. The battle that raged over the dread "Texas Fever" is one of the most violent in the whole history of the industry. Nobody knew why a herd of Texas Longhorns, driven hundreds of miles to the great markets, would leave a path of death and sickness in its wake . . . but it happened time after time. Soon almost every Western state had thrown up a quarantine around its borders. The Texas cowmen—desperate to get their herds to market — launched a painstaking investigation and eventually eradicated the feared disease.

During the course of their stormy history the cattlemen were up against the challenge of men and man-made devices as well as nature. The advent of barbed wire and the fencing in of the open range, the homesteaders, the closing off the old trails, the arrival of the railroads—all of these meant a tough fight for the Cattle Raisers Association. But every battle it fought drew the members closer together and made the organization what it is today—the mighty voice of the cattle industry, with a membership drawn from many states and its own resplendent headquarters building in Fort Worth.

No one is better qualified to write this stirring chronicle of a great industry than Lewis Nordyke, who is already known to thousands of readers as the man who wrote an authoritative account of the fabulous XIT ranch—the biggest in the history of the country. Texas born and bred — on a farm near Cottonwood — Nordyke has worked as a newspaperman throughout the state, writing for national magazines on the side. All his life he has been fascinated by Western history—and his special knowledge of the subject comes not only from extensive research but from long personal acquaintance with many of the men who made it.

GREAT ROUNDUP is illustrated with maps, photographs and many line drawings by the renowned Western artist H. D. Bugbee—who has caught the very essence of the legendary excitement that is "the roundup." The frontispiece is a reproduction in full color of one of Charles M. Russell's famous paintings. The book sells for $5. The Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association has made arrangements to distribute a limited number of a special edition. Those interested may secure additional information by writing that Association at 410 E. Weatherford St., Fort Worth, Texas. The book will be featured and on display at the 78th annual convention of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, Adolphus Hotel, Dallas, Texas, March 22-23.

The grave digger had just completed his last grave for the day. His mind had wandered to other things, and he found he had dug so deep he couldn't get out. He shouted for help, and finally a drunken passerby came over to see what was the matter.

"Get me out of here," pleaded the grave digger. "I'm cold."

The drunk thought for some time.

"No wonder you're cold," he finally announced. "You haven't got any dirt on you."

A single girl came into her office and began passing out cigars to the men and candy to the girls. Somewhat puzzled, her co-workers asked what the occasion was. Proudly she displayed a solitaire on her left hand and announced: "It's a boy—6 feet tall and 185 pounds."

A bored cat and an interested cat were watching a tennis game.

Bored cat: "You seem to be interested in tennis."

Interested cat: "It's not that. My old man's in the racket."

Two drunks were walking down a railroad track. Said the first drunk, "These long stairs sure do get me."

"It's not the long stairs," said the second drunk, "it's these low banisters."

"So you lost your best friend. How did it happen?"

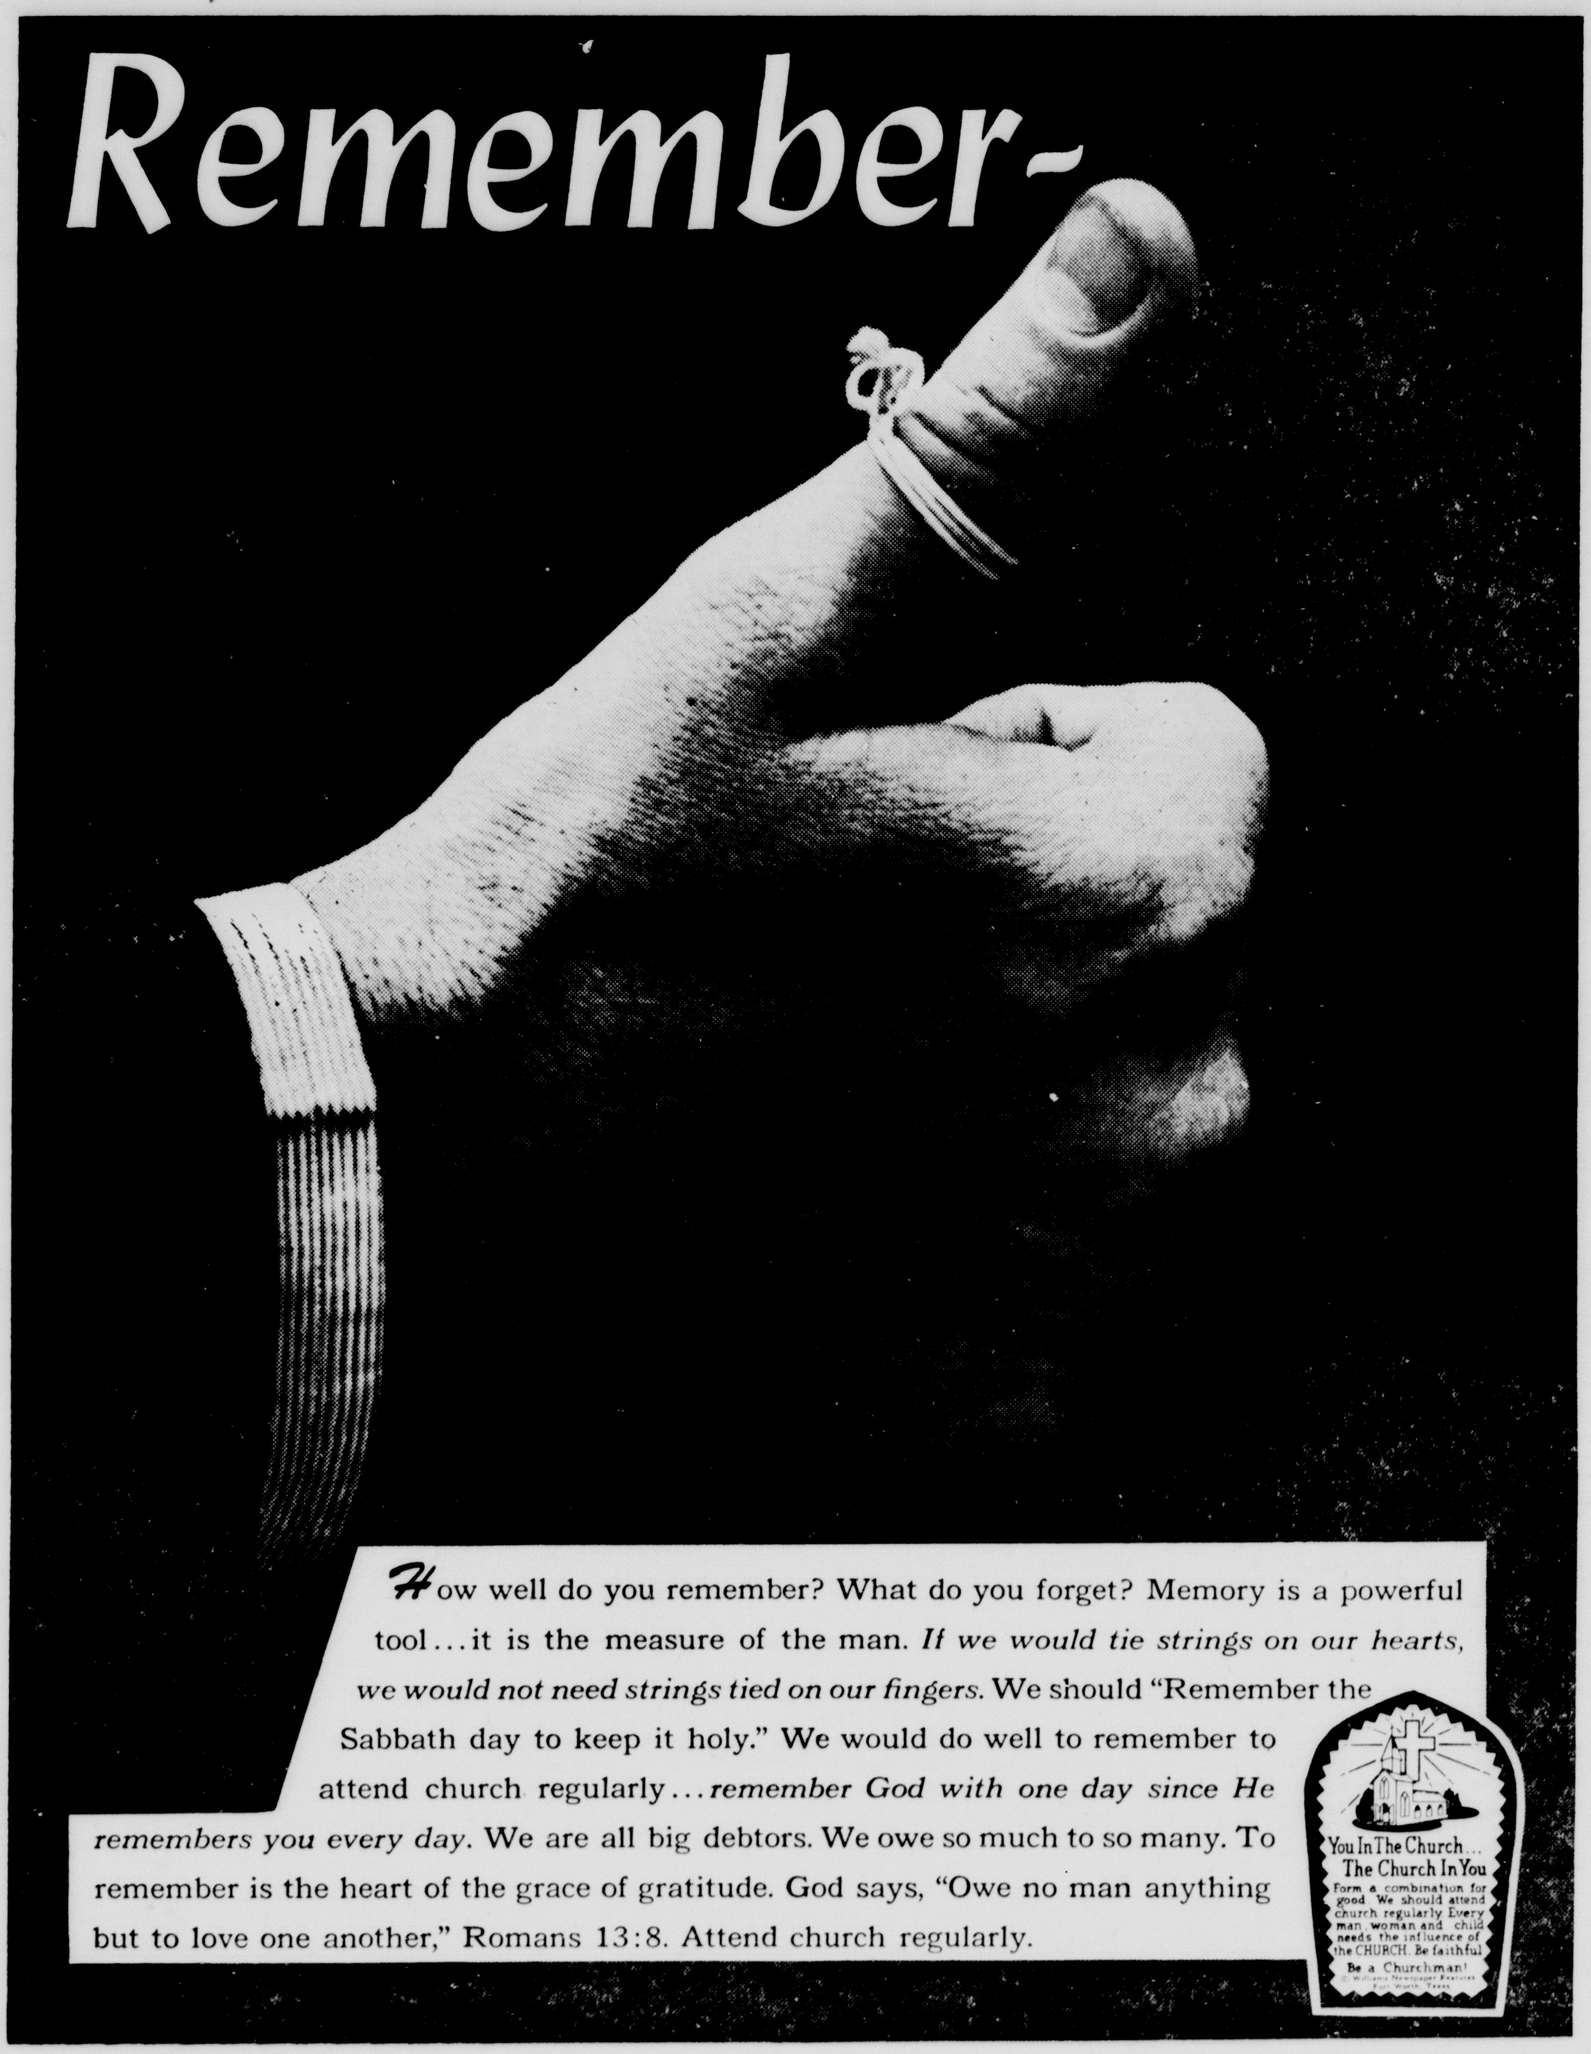

"He was keelt by a weasel."

"Killed by a weasel? How could that happen?"

"He's driving a hotmobile. Is coming to a railroad crossing. Deedn't hear no weasel."

"Did you get home all right after the party last night?"

"Fine, thanks; except that as I turned into my street some idiot stepped on my fingers."

School Functions

There are many small but important functions of a good school system. These are some of the most outstanding.

First, and maybe most important, the mind must be educated because an illiterate population makes an illiterate nation. Ignorance is the food of communism and therefore it is the school's job to fight it with the books of learning.

Second, in the schools people learn to live together happily. If they work, live, learn, play, and share together it will better prepare them as a future citizen of their community. People cannot live without the companionship of others their own age, and a function of a good school is to provide companionship through school activities.

Third, a good school should teach the qualities of leadership. Today's children are tomorrow's leaders. If they are taught leadership in the schools they will be prepared to take their place in the community whether it be as a city official or just as a citizen.

Fourth, a school should teach tolerance. When this nation was founded the constitution provided that all men are created equal. If this nation, starting with the schools, would teach tolerance it would become stronger. A nation cannot keep peace in the world while it is itself intolerant. To learn, to understand the other person should be everyone's personal goal.

Fifth, a school should teach the characteristics of manners, discipline, responsibility, courtesy, and sportsmanship. It should teach a sense of self-discipline because later there will not be anyone to say what is right or wrong. It should teach courtesy and manners because these are essential to have a successful life.

These are just five of the many jobs of public schools. Give them your earnest support.

—Patricia Hardaway

Student of the Week

Tommie Davis and Roland O'Donald, two sophomore FFA members, placed first and second respectively, on swine projects exhibited in the lightweight Duroc division at the Amarillo Fat Stock Show held throughout the week of February 28 to March 5. At an earlier show, Roland won first and Tommie rated fourth on the same exhibits.

Tommie is a versatile lad who is especially interested in sports. He claims swimming and trampoline as his favorite hobbies, but also finds time to participate in various school activities. This past football season Tommie worked diligently to manage the Eagles team. He has taken an active part in the noon intramurals, participating in washers, horseshoes, and ping pong. In addition to sports activities, Tommie is a member of the First Baptist Church, is enrolled as an FFA Greenhand farmer, and was formerly freshman class president. At present Tommie's ambition is to pass plane geometry.

Roland likewise shows an immense interest in sports. During his freshman year, Roland was on the "B" football team. This year Roland played halfback on the "A" team, and merited a letter jacket for his accomplishments in that activity.

Roland also cooperates in the noon intramurals; he has participated in washers, horseshoes, and ping pong. Last year Roland was freshman class sergeant-at-arms. Presently he is an active member of the First Methodist Church, and is a chapter farmer in the FFA chapter. He lists swimming as his favorite sport, and his ambition is to pass plane geometry.

Band Members Attend Concert

A group of band members boarded a school bus Tuesday afternoon, March 8, to attend a concert in Clovis, New Mexico. Mr. Sigard Rascher, generally accepted as the world's greatest saxophonist, gave the concert in the Clovis Junior High School auditorium at 7:30 p. m.

Mr. Rascher believes in playing good music which is definitely classical. He does not play music to entertain the audience. Mr. Rascher played compositions composed by Mozart, Bach, Corelli, and many others. Recently, he has had composers to write music especially for the saxophone.

Band members attending the concert were David Hawkins, Karen Crum, Bobby Samuelson, Sylvia Key, Jackie Barnard, Florence Clements, Juanita Griffin, Johnny Weeks, Joy Oldham, Sara Jo Hickman, Royce Gum, Avalon Brown, Wilford Taylor, Pat Burgess, Joyce Shelnutt, Joyce Barker, and Martha Harding. Sponsor for the affair was Mr. Herman Demus, band director.

Juniors Attend Western Party

Juniors went western by corraling loads of fun in the cafeteria at the second semester class party last Tuesday, March 8.

Thirty-four cowpokes rode in for sessions of dominoes, ping-pong, "42," pig, and some old fashioned "hoss play," topped off with hot dogs, chili, buns, potato salad, and cold drinks for refreshments.

The junior herd was paired off at the opening of the round-up into two teams, Rangers and Scouts, and soon were engaged in pitched battles for points in the table tournaments which followed.

After a period of rugged struggling the score stood even and the teams went to the playoffs — a game designed to test the wind of West Texans. First, the teams were split equally and instructed to kneel encircling two lunchroom tables. Soon a ping-pong ball was produced and the groups were told to blow it off the table on the opponent's side. Rangers blew past the Scouts in the tie-breaker leaving junior blowhards a little short of hot air in this March-seasoned festival.

The party was under the direction of Miss Claudia Neelley and Mr. Loyd Devin, class sponsors. Assisting were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ruthart, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Tomlinson, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Root, Mr. and Mrs. Newton Crain, and Mr. and Mrs. Hud Prichard.

Students Vacate School in Drill

Evacuating the Canyon High School building in one minute and 25 seconds, students carried out a fire drill successfully Thursday, March 10, about 9:50 a. m.

In case the building was in real danger, the fire department was interested i nthe effectiveness of the student body leaving the school.

The Canyon Fire Department thinks the CHS student body is well organized, and in the manner in which they execute the fire drill is satisfactory.

Due to the conditions it will be necessary to mark off a fire lane in front of CHS. Room will be needed to drag two water lines from Ninth Street and Fifth Avenue into the building from the front entrance. Cars are not allowed to park there at any time.

Striking Jackets Sported by Girls

"Alice, have you heard? They're here!"

This was the excited exclamation of co-captain Betty Burrus after learning that the new basketball jackets had arrived Wednesday, March 9.

Fourteen girls received striking jackets of a deep purple wool body. Sharply contrasting are the white leather inserts on the shoulders and tabs on the pockets.

The jacket is a white satin reversible with purple trim. Finishing the ensemble of contrast are the purple and white elastic cuffs and bottom edge, and the white snaps.

FHA'ers Submit Degree Records

Five girls, all members of the local FHA chapter, sent applications for State Homemaker Degrees to Lubbock on Monday, March 14. These applications will be judged on Saturday, March 26, by chapter sponsors and representatives, in competition with other Area 1 state degree applicants.

The state degree regulations require the fulfillment of six standards. These standards include outstanding accomplishments relating to personal goals, school, chapter, homemaking, and community activities, and state FHA achievements.

Applicants representing the Canyon FHA chapter are Diane Prichard, Janis Wright, Virginia Leake, Nancy Tomlinson, and Alby Kuehler.

Girls from Area I who receive state degrees will journey to Galveston for the state FHA meeting to be held April 22-24, and will have their state degrees presented to them on stage before that convention. Also, FHA members who merit state degrees will earn the right to wear a miniature burning torch which symbolizes their achievement.

June Davis, FHA president, and Mrs. Clara B. Long, FHA advisor, are the local chapter representatives delegated to attend the judging session at Lubbock on March 26, and help select state degree winners from Area 1.

NHS Installation Ceremony Held

Installation services for the probationary members of the National Honor Society were held Sunday, March 13, in the high school auditorium.

The opening processional was played by June Davis, and Norris Samuelson acted as master of ceremonies. The response was given by Tom Wilbanks.

Barry Clark discussed the topic, "Scholarship," for the benefit of the new members. Other topics given were "Leadership" by Dovie Keene, "Service" by Jack McCormick, and "Character" by Alice Simms.

A reception was held immediately following the service in the homemaking room, and appropriate piano selections were played by Helene Meyer.

Volleyball Teams Play in Tourney

The girls volleyball teams are well along their schedules, the latest meets being at the Pampa invitational A and B tournament March 12.

The B team placed with consolation winning over McLean and Borger and dropping to Plainview, but the A team failed to cut out a place in the top winning teams by losing to Big Spring in the semi-finals.

Two Canyon girls were selected on the All-Tournament teams. Rhea June Ford, All-Tournament A team, received a gold volleyball. Alice Brotherton, All-Tournament B team, was awarded a silver volleyball.

Players on the A team were Bettie Glanton, Rhea June Ford, Barbara Bacon, Jerry Matsler, Gladys Leseberg, Betty Jane Brotherton, and Ellen Johnson.

On the B team were Alice Brotherton, Betty Burrus, Mary Sue Bolton, Jackie Matsler, Nancy Kay Tomlinson, Peggy Sheets, Carolyne Glanton, and Jearlyn Partridge.

Care To Read My Letter?

"I've a letter from Montana." "Mine is from Delaware." "Say, news from Minnesota."

Sounds such as these came from the shorthand class recently. The student's names were sent off, and before long letters began arriving from shorthand scholars in other states.

Up to date, Ellen Johnson has received a letter from Minnesota; Dovie Keene has heard from a pen pal in Delaware; and Mary Sue Hicks reports her pen pal is in Montana.

It is all in shorthand, of course.

Science Students Busy in Lab

Buzzing in enthusiasm, science students are learning to make hydrogen and to dissect fish.

Making hydrogen seems as if it would be difficult. Members of the chemistry class are experiencing the thrills of making such a dangerous gas.

The students have learned that hydrogen is not free in the air like oxygen, carbon dioxide, and other gases, but has to be made by putting different substances together.

Scientists believe that hydrogen is found abundantly on the moon.

A study of atoms and molecules has begun in the chemistry class, also. The group is learning laws, weights, and how to work gas law problems.

In the biology department students are learning to dissect cray fish, cutting and opening their shells behind the eyes. Taking out the muscle, the next step is to deaden the nerves.

Members of the Science Club are investigating the costs and kinds of flowers that will grow well on the CHS landscape without much care during the summer months. After deciding on the type of flower the club plans to donate it to the school.

Band Practices Contest Material

The band is smothered with activity as it prepares for the Interscholastic League contest in April and its annual Spring Concert.

The woodwind trio: Joe Dickerson, oboe, Betty Burrus, bassoon, Maxine Greene, flute, and the Brass Quartet, Bernye Woodward, cornet, Brian Tolliver, cornet, David Miller, French horn, Glenn Rusk, baritone, are practicing for the solo and ensemble contest on April 1.

Soloists preparing for the contest are Glenn Rusk, baritone, Bonnell Riley, bass horn, David Miller, French horn, Pat Hardaway, clarinet, Johnny Weeks, bass clarinet, Maxine Greene, twirling, and Maxine Greene and LaVerne Riley, twirling duet.

The band as a whole has selected the numbers to play in the concert contest, and has been practicing for the sight-reading and marching contests.

One of the featured numbers at the Spring Concert will be one of Dr. Houston Bright's latest band compositions, a selection from "Sketches from the West." The Junior High Band and the Beginners Band will also perform at this concert.

Art Students Featuring Pottery; Project Grows With Enthusiasm

That will crack off, Mike. Use the ball and thumb method or score and weld it with slip . . . Use your template or you will have a shape you didn't plan, Mary . . . Oh, Betty, do you think a curve here would improve your design? Try it to see whether or not you like it.

If you were observing the art students hard at work on their clay, you would probably hear Miss Neelley explaining methods of designing, shaping, and mending the clay objects.

Before a student begins his work in clay, he must decide what he wants to make. The student bases his decision on five major factors: use, simplicity, suitability to clay, size, and practicalbility.

First a picture of the article to be made must be conceived in the mind. It must then be drawn on paper. With this in mind, the student mixes the right amount of clay. After he has beat out the bubbles on a batt, a slab of plaster, he begins to work, checking by his pattern from time to time.

While the clay is being worked, it is wrapped in a damp cloth and a sheet of plastic. When the object is completed, it is wrapped loosely to allow slow drying. In drying slowly, there is little danger of cracking.

After the object has dried thoroughly it is fired in the kiln, turning it to stone. The glaze is then sprayed on and allowed to dry. Again the object is fired. In the second firing the glaze obtains a glossy finish. This process completes the piece of pottery.

A student is proud of the fact that he has been patient for the many weeks from the time he first thought of a design until his design is realized when he takes the finished piece from the kiln.

Not only is the student proud of his piece, but the teacher and all the other students are proud for him as they gather around to offer their congratulations.

We saw a small boy sitting in the sun last week, gazing intently into the dried grass at his feet. What did he see there? Tiny green shoots pushing through the thick carpet of dead blades, maybe. Or an ant working its way over the Bermuda underbrush with a burden of food.

Whatever it was that attracted this little fellow, the thing he was seeing was not what you or I could have seen. It was magnified by his lively imagination to storybook size.

A first-grader, dawdling on his way to school at noon the next day, was so absorbed in the piece of broken mirror in his hand that he lost all count of time. Slanting it this way and that, he caught the sun's rays and refracted them to the ground. Although he couldn't have explained it, he was learning something that would make college physics easier to understand in a few more years.

Only small boys, research scientists and retired millionaires, apparently, have time any more to lose themselves in such intense observation of the wonders of nature. Most of us, hurrying along from one self-imposed "have-to" to another, hardly notice the world around us at all. If we do, it is to wish we might "find the time" to enjoy it.

A pool of silence now and then, away from personalities and from too much awareness of our own duties and problems, would make life richer and deeper for any of us. We are like actors, reluctant to leave the stage for fear of what we may find in the wings.

WARREN'S

Around the Town . .

(By Mrs. Clyde W. Warwick)

ATTENTION PARENTS

In every community of the United States, Hawaii and Alaska, plans are now being made for polio vaccinations this spring—if the Salk vaccine is licensed by the National Institute of Health.

The manufacture of this vaccine was made possible by the March of Dimes and it will be ready for use when the report on the vaccine is received from the Poliomyelitis Vaccine Evaluation Center at the University of Michigan. There, scientists are studying records on 1,830,000 children who were included in the 1954 trial of the Salk polio vaccine.

It is hoped that all children in the first and second grades of the primary schools in our community will have the opportunity this spring to receive the Salk polio vaccine.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will provide sufficient amounts of the vaccine to the Texas State Health Department so that it may be given in our schools under the supervision of Dr. R. P. Jarrett, Jr., local Health Officer.

Mrs. T. V. Reeves, who was appointed to help in this work, says: "We shall not know whether the vaccine will be licensed until some time in April, but we must prepare now for our community program so that all three inoculations which are to be given this year may be given before schools close and before the polio season. In order to do this it is necessary for parents who want their children to receive the vaccine to sign the blank they will receive soon and return it to the designated person."

Mrs. Reeves says all children of the first and second grades will receive this vaccine FREE if the parents sign and return this blank. There will be a meeting of parents called soon to inform them of the program and answer any questions which may be asked. It is hoped all parents will come and help with this most important program.

The drive for funds for "Crippled Children" will be held by the local society beginning March 10 to May 10. The work of the national society and the local society is financed largely by funds received during the Easter Seal appeal.

This Society was organized in 1921 and has as its purpose the making of useful and independent or self-supporting citizens of these children who have been crippled in their early life through no fault of their own. Before this Society was organized these unfortunate children dragged out an existence that was a burden to themselves and others. Now many of these have been enabled through treatment offered by this Society to care for themselves. W. E. Miller, chairman, said: "If you do not have a crippled child of your own you should be grateful enough to help others." Dr. Walter Juniper said: "There is no more worthy cause than the helping of the crippled children."

Of the money that is raised by this drive 75% is used for local work, 16⅔ is sent for state use, 8⅓ is sent to national. Last year the money was used to furnish wheel chairs to two crippled children and a tricycle for a polio victim, who, through the use of this tricycle, is regaining the use of his legs, also hospitalization for needy children.

The money received locally is administered through the following committee: W. E. Miller, chairman, Dr. Dudley Moore, vice-chairmen, Don Standley, treasurer, Mrs. Clyde Warwick, director of publicity, Dr. Leta N. Boswell, Dr. R. P. Jarrett, Mrs. A. K. Knott, Dr. Bert Masters, Milton Morris, Dr. R. A. Neblett, Dr. C. R. Nester, Miss Betty Norman, Miss Floella Cubine, and Joe E. Gibson who was chairman last year.

You will receive a letter next week containing the Easter Seals, use the seals and send your donation for this cause in the addressed envelope. It is hoped that everyone receiving these Easter Seals will do something to help in this great program to aid the physically underprivileged. Sympathy without action is fruitless. The Society urges you to do your good turn for humanity today.

In connection with the three drives that are being made for the benefit of children this month, polio vaccination, crippled children, and the library, it is interesting to note that the first child labor law became effective in Massachusetts, March 3, 1842. Just 113 years ago, children, in some cases children five years of age, were compelled to work from 13 to 16 hours a day in industry and agriculture.

Community leaders of that day imbued with puritanical ideas regarding the evils of idleness among children, co-operated with employers, helping them to recruit young factory hands from indigent families. An advertisement of the Baltimore, (Md.) Cotton Manufacturing in the January 4, 1801, edition appealed for boys and girls aged eight to 12, urging its readers with "knowledge of families who have children destitute of employ" to "Do an act of public benefit by directing them to this institution."

YES, the world is getting better. Today, assisted by many others, these community leaders, W. E. Miller, Mrs. Clay Cooper, Dr. R. P. Jarrett, and Mrs. T. V. Reeves, are devoting their time to the cause of crippled children, polio, and the library with one purpose in mind, the building of a better community for youth.

Many people are worried about the effect of the chlorine that is put in the city water, on their yards and house plants. Miss Peggie Schults who writes for "The Flower Grower," has this to say: "Some gardeners are concerned about the effect of the chlorine in water on the plants in the garden. There's no need for concern though; if the water is 'drinkable' it won't harm plants."

At the Panhandle-Plains Museum they are now erecting the old Hanging Platform, which they received from Jim Varnear of Shamrock October, 1947. This platform comes from Ft. Elliott and while there 27 men were hanged from it. It is an iron trap placed on a wooden platform and when the trap was sprung the man placed on it with a rope around his neck in the name of justice, fell ten feet, ending his career of crime.

I went out to the W.T.S.C. Library building Tuesday and found they had used tumbleweeds to decorate the entrance lobby. It was very attractive. That's twice lately that tumbleweeds have been used for decorative purposes. The Sue Hite Club used them in its decorations for the dinner the club gave.

Mrs. D. A. Shirley was called to Granberry by the illness of her sister. Mrs. Shirley, this sister, and two other women had planned to make the "Azelia Trail" this month, but will not be able now to go.

Mrs. Ann Wofford has returned from Houston where she has been convalescing from her recent surgery, in the home of her daughter.

The Garden Club met in regular session Tuesday evening at the W.T.S.C. film room in the Library. Dr. Leta N. Boswell gave a most interesting and instructive talk on the value and beauty of using Annuals and Perennials in the yard; their treatment and the most effective ways of using them.

It was decided to change the meeting time from the second Thursday, as there are other meetings on Tuesday that interfere.

Dr. Ples Harper gave a talk on garden and flower seeds which Mrs. Frank Morgan had prepared and was prevented from giving by illness. Dr. Harper told of new developments in seeds, giving the improvements and the resistance to disease that have developed this last year.

The Club decided to meet during the summer months in the yards of the members.

It's getting to be spring now so you who like to mess around in the ground come and join us. At least we can swap ideas and learn how to garden better that way. You miss a lot of fun if you don't try to raise green things.

Levi Cole said the easiest way to get seeds up was to take a coffee can, punch holes in the bottom, fill it with equal parts of spagnum moss, peat moss and vermiculite, soak it good with water, lay the seeds on top of this and place a glass on top of the can to hold the moisture. Seeds planted this way come up more quickly and are easier transplanted.

Here is a quick and easy pickled peach sherbet that goes well with most meat dishes.

Take a 2½ can of cling peach halves, drain off the juice and to it add 1 teaspoon whole cloves, 1 (3-inch) stick of cinnamon, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon lemon juice and 1 tablespoon sugar and boil five minutes. Add peaches and cook gently five minutes. Allow to stand all night. Strain off juice and freeze until barely firm. Turn into a bowl and beat until smooth. Return and freeze. Serve halves filled with this frozen juice.

There is so much talk about smoking these days that I find the following story interesting. The men of Holland are said to be inveterate smokers and in the streets of Rotterdam is shown the home of the greatest smoker the world has ever known. Meinheer Van Klaes consumed on the average 150 grams of tobacco every day. His last will and testament was extraordinary. His directions as to how he should be buried were: "I wish that all my friends who are smokers shall be specially invited to my funeral. Each of them shall receive a package of tobacco and two pipes, and they are requested to smoke uninterruptedly during my funeral ceremonies. My body shall be enclosed in a coffin lined with the wood of my old cigar boxes. Beside me in the casket shall be laid my favorite meerschaum, a box of matches, and a package of tobacco. When my body is lowered into the grave, every person present is requested to pass by and cast upon it the ashes from his pipe." These touching requests, it is said, were complied with. His friends attended in prodigious numbers; and at the funeral, the smoke was so dense that a horn had to be blown to enable the mourners to find the door. All this smoking killed the poor man at the age of NINETY-EIGHT YEARS. However, it is said that smoking in America's dry atmosphere excites and irritates; but among the Dutch canals it drugs and stupefies.

"It is my prayer that your love may be more and more rich in knowledge and all manner of insight, enabling you to have a sense of what is vital." — Philippians 1.

DEAD MAN IN CRASH

Baltimore, Md. — Investigating a woman's complaint that a car had bumped into her automobile from the rear when she stopped for a traffic light, police looked into the second car and found Joseph Gaff, 66, slumped over the steering wheel. Taken to a hospital, he was pronounced dead.

EXCEPTION

Bride — You said you would go through fire and water for me, and now you refuse every time I ask you for money.

Groom — But I never said I'd go through bankruptcy for you.

AUTO INSURANCE

Automobile liability insurance rates are coming down in 39 states — reductions ranging from 9 to 32 per cent in certain classifications. The reduction is expected to apply to about 25 per cent of private passenger cars insured by members of the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters. Young women drivers, not the men, are said to be primarily responsible for the reduction.

The Red Cross is called a "big disaster insurance company."

URANIUM MILLIONAIRE

Dallas, Texas. — Walter Kassell, 43-year-old aircraft industry employee, recently sold his interest in a Utah uranium discovery for $4,000,000. Kassell, prospecting in a small plane last November, noticed that the "scintillator showed more than 15 times the normal reaction" for an area near Moab, Utah. Kassell is also considering an offer of $3,000,000 for another uranium discovery.

PLANES TO JAPAN

Latest Rumors From Political Front of Nation

An important White House aide says this: "Ike will run again. He has not said so, but I know he will. I remember when we talked with him in 1952. He wasn't a strong Republican, he wasn't interested in the Presidency. Then we stressed the angle of 'duty' and he came around. We'll do it again." Asked about Mrs. Eisenhower, he said: "She likes it here more and more. Don't worry about her."

Friends of Richard Nixon, Vice President, are very pleased that Ike favored San Francisco as the site for the 1956 Republican Convention. They feel that this assures choice of a Californian for second place on the Republican ticket and, with Nixon now holding that job, his renomination is regarded by them as nearly certain.

President Eisenhower is suggesting to some Cabinet officers they they get out of Washington more, to bump against the people and to keep a finger on the pulse of popular opinion.

Top officials in the Eisenhower Administration in some cases recently have received personal notes from the President asking that they plan to remain in office during the concluding two years of the first Eisenhower Administration. If there are to be big personnel changes, they appear unlikely before a second term.

For filling important job vacancies, the White House is trying out a plan of having a replacement selected before the vacancy is announced. The objective is to cut off pressure from individuals who may want the job. In one recent case there were 263 endorsements, many from politically potent individuals, urging a particular person for an opening.

Robert Cutler, special assistant to Mr. Eisenhower on all matters of national security, and one of the President's closest advisers, may leave soon for reasons of health. Mr. Cutler has intended to leave for almost a year but has been persuaded to stay on.

Adlai Stevenson's friends say that the 1952 Democratic candidate for the Presidency is really interested in seeking the Democratic nomination for Senator from Illinois in 1956. Stevenson, if nominated, then would run against Senator Everett Dirksen for Senator rather than against Eisenhower for President.

William Knowland, California Senator and Republican Floor Leader, is being treated with a friendly exchange of views at breakfasts he is having with the President. The White House feels that a meeting of minds on foreign policy issues may be worked out in this way.

Sam Rayburn, Texas Democrat and Speaker of the House, never did regard with much favor the plan to give a $20-per-head cut in income tax. Speaker Rayburn went along because of a widespread feeling among House Democrats that this move would be popular politically.

High officers of the U. S. Navy say that this branch of the military services is not preparing an official history of the Pearl Harbor disaster. If retired naval officers are working on such a history, it is not an official project.

Sir Anthony Eden, Britain's Foreign Secretary and heir apparent to Sir Winston Churchill, is reported not to be in good health. R. A. Butler, Chancellor of the British Exchequer, is gradually emerging as the one likely to be the strong man of the British Conservatives, when and if Churchill steps out.

Sir Winston talked with full knowledge of U. S. officials when he revealed that the Soviet Union is far behind in the atomic-weapons race. It is beginning to be admitted that the Communists are quite good in copying models of new things they get from the West and in making use of any secrets they can steal, but they aren't so good in original development of wholly new products.

The statement out of Moscow signed by Bruno Pontecorvo, atomic scientist who defected to the Communists—telling how good a Communist he still is—was timed to try to offset growing evidence of Soviet weakness in the atomic field. By showing off an atomic scientist, the Communists sought to prove that they had a lot of late-model weapons.

Nikita Khrushchev, the Soviet Union's new dictator, is trying to sell back to satellite countries in Western Europe a billion dollars' worth of shares in industry that the Communists grabbed for nothing when they took over those countries. After milking the industries, the Russians now insist that these satellites buy them back, paying in more goods.

Talks about release of U. S. civilians, held prisoner in Communist China, are being carried out in the Hotel Beau Rivage in Geneva, Switzerland—with the Communists showing signs of willingness to do business if ransom is high enough.

DRIVERLESS CAR ROUTS TROOPS

San Antonio, Texas. — An automobile whose driver was slumped over the wheel shot 500 yards across a Lackland Air Force Base drill field recently, scattering troops in all directions. Finally it halted against a barracks building. The driver, Sgt. John W. Burris, 27, apparently suffered a heart attack and was dead on arrival at base hospital.

U. S. LIVESTOCK

Livestock and poultry on the nation's farms increased three per cent during 1954, according to the Agriculture Department. This reversed a slight downturn in the previous year. Despite the increase in numbers, the value of livestock declined slightly because of lower prices. Meat animals — cattle, hogs and sheep — were up almost three per cent while work stock — horses and mules — was down nine per cent. A one per cent reduction was reported in milk cows.

ALL BUT THE SINK

Cincinnati. — Osi Wright, 35, entered the home of Willie Turner and took every bit of furniture and personal property except the sink. He got away with it until he decided to get the sink, Turner caught him and a jury convicted Wright of house-breaking.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

The Republicans, abandoning plans for a September convention in 1956, have finally selected San Francisco as the site for their convention, Leonard W. Hall, committee chairman, indicated he hopes state election laws can be changed to permit an August meeting, thus shortening the presidential campaign.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

The Democrats have set July 23 as the date for their 1956 convention to open in Chicago, unless some states — Massachusetts, South Dakota and Connecticut — change their laws in the meantime to permit a later opening date.

Tom — I hope we'll agree after we're married.

Tess — Maybe you won't at first, but you'll soon learn to.

NEW DESTROYER

The U.S.S. Forrest P. Sherman, first in a new line of all-purpose Navy destroyers, recently was launched at Bath, Maine. The ship is somewhat larger than the 2,425-ton destroyers of World War II but the use of aluminum alloys in the superstructure has kept the weight increase to a minimum. Present plans call for building ten more Sherman-type destroyers.

FARM PRICES

Farm prices rose two per cent between mid-December and mid-January, but were about six per cent below those of a year ago, 9.4 per cent under what they were two years ago when President Eisenhower entered the White House, and 22 per cent lower than the record high in February, 1951, when the Korean war was going on.

WENT HUNGRY

A Sunday school teacher was showing her class a picture of the Christian martyrs in a den of lions. One little boy looked very sad about it.

"Gee," he exclaimed, "look at that poor lion way in the back. He ain't going to get any."

A girl and a car are much alike. A paint job conceals the years but the lines will tell the story.
